

We support the Wisconsin No Call list as it presently is. This law has finally provided our household with privacy and quiet during meals and evenings.

Also, Gary is disabled and his part-time job sometimes requires that he has to work unusual hours and he needs to sleep during the day. The No Call law has substantially reduced the number of times his critically needed sleep has been interrupted by some telemarketing computer which quite often hangs up by the time the call is answered.

We do not want to be contacted by an insurance company or other telemarketer who may, through extended business links, be connected to a bank with which we have an account.

We are perfectly happy calling businesses with which we wish to conduct business. We prefer the quality of life and the peace and privacy that Wisconsin's law has afforded us.
